Sizing Up a Situation.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian arises to inquire:

"Why not send Judge Birkhead and Ben Ringo to Marietta, Ga., to hold a term of court?"

The Kentuckian in a few words sized up two big situations. It told how completely a fearless judge and a courageous prosecutor have prostrated a streak of outlaws that has run through a number of western Kentucky counties, and it very aptly called to mind that a fearless judge and a courageous prosecutor, actuated by right motives, could clean out lawlessness in a place like Marietta.

There are few abler circuit judges than Birkhead and there are few abler commonwealth attorneys than Ringo, and as men of courage, men of purpose, they have proven themselves to be the equals of any—Owensboro Inquirer.

Six English and French financiers are on their way to New York to borrow a huge sum of money, popularly estimated at half a billion dollars, or more, with which to pay for American supplies for the allied armies and other imports from this country.

Hostile air craft visited the eastern countries and the London district Wednesday night and dropped incendiary and explosive bombs. At midnight a few casualties had been reported and some fires, which were then well under control.

Medical inspection for Evansville school children will be inaugurated Oct. 1. Steps to this end were taken by the school board in response to a letter from Mayor Basse urging that the inspection be established.

The pictures of Mrs. C. Franklin Mohr, wife of the man found dead near Providence, R. I., from gunshot wounds, give color to the suspicion that Dr. Mohr may have committed suicide.

Prospects of a billion bushel wheat crop this year are increased by the government report which forecasts 981,000,000 bushels based on its September 1 canvass.

Bait.

The attention of the taxi driver was called to a purse lying on the floor of his car. He carefully looked around and then remarked confidentially: "Well, sir, when business is bad I sometimes put it there and leave my door open. The purse is empty, of course, but you have no idea what a number of people jump in for a short drive. I've had five within the last hour, sir."

MASTERFUL RETREAT

Austrian Officer Says Russians
Burned Everything Behind Them.

Geneva, Switzerland.—The Lausanne Gazette publishes a letter from an Austrian officer fighting on the eastern front in which he says:

"The Russian retreat is a masterpiece of terrifying systematic devastation, which recalls the retreat of 1812. There is an immense sea of flames behind the retreating Russian armies caused by burning houses and crops. Gen. Mischenko is followed by well-organized detachments of Cossacks, whose duty it is to burn everything behind the army. They accomplish their task impeccably.

"When the Honveds tried to enter Krylow in pursuit of the Russians every street was aflame. They were unable to pass through the huge furnace and lost many precious hours in going round the town by indirect roads or across fields.

"When the Austro-Hungarians arrived at Vladimir-Volynskiy they found the town burning, and the town of Verba also was blazing. Every village on the Volynskiy plain as far as Kovel was in flames. The Austro-Hungarian troops had no shelter for days.

"The roads are indescribably cut up and obstructed. Convoys arrived a day and a half late. It would take fifty soldiers to draw one carload out of a mudhole."

Here's a Toast to The Horse.

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

I don't know who wrote this toast to the horse, but I'd rather read it than Vest's dog speech:

"Here's to that bundle of sentient nerves, with the heart of a woman, the eye of a gazelle, the courage of a gladiator, the docility of a slave, the proud carriage of a king and the blind obedience of a soldier; the companion of the desert plain, that turns the moist furrows in the spring in order that all the world may have an abundant harvest, that furnishes the sport of kings, that with blazing eye and distended nostril fearlessly leads our greatest generals through carnage and renown, whose blood forms one of the ingredients that go to make the ink in which all history is written, and who finally, in black trappings, pulls the humblest of us to the newly soddied threshold of eternity."

Too Many Porto Ricans.

A recent census shows that Porto Rico, although an agricultural country, is the most thickly populated in the world, and hope is expressed that the new homestead law will do something toward relieving the congestion.

TWO MORE.

Two additional British steamers have met with disaster, either from submarines or mines—the tanker Cymbeline, of whose crew six were killed, and the steamer Mimosa. The men on the latter vessel were saved.

Peruvian Balsam.

Peruvian balsam, known the world over for its excellent properties, does not come from Peru at all, but grows along a stretch of the coast of Salvador.

Morrow Opens.

In opening his campaign at Bowling Green, Edwin P. Morrow, Republican candidate for Governor, scored the financial policies of the present State administration and declared for the county unit system.

Old Lady's Sage Advice.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main street, this city, says: "If you had seen me, before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person. Six doctors failed to do me any good, and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step. At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere." All ailing women need Cardui, as a gentle, refreshing tonic, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments. It is a reliable, vegetable remedy, successfully used for over 50 years. You ought to try it.—Advertisement.

Proper Conduct in Dancing.

Philadelphia is proud of the fact that the people of that city have fully demonstrated that they may be relied upon to adhere to decorum and that conduct is acceptable to the public when they dance. It is that city's boast that it has had the largest, best and most orderly dance ever pulled off; that its fame did not get its full growth with the close of Billy Sunday's ten-weeks meeting, in which thousands of people were converted, but that it continues to grow with every large undertaking, whether it be of a religious, social or commercial character, and now that great city comes forward with additional renown, this time with a respectable, decent and orderly dance, in which 6,750 couples took part.

It is related that out of this vast crowd of dancers there were only twenty-four couples that needed to be reprimanded. On account of this remarkable record, Philadelphia is puffed up with pride. It is even boastful of its fine conduct and good manners, to say nothing of its good morals, and now it is urged that there be more open dances on the city's squares, that the excellent deportment may be advertised to the world.—Tennessean.

EUGENIA'S LIFE

Arabian Nights.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 8.—Baring her life secrets, Eugenia DeForest, who for twenty-five years had posed as a man, was twice married, once as a woman, again as a man, and divorced, and who for the last five years has conducted a school of dramatic art in Blanchard Hall, as "Prof." DeForest, confessed Thursday her duplicity, and declared "she had harmed no one." She collapsed after being arrested late last night and is being held at a hospital.

The woman's story reads like a page from the Arabian Nights. "I have always been sexes," she declared. "I have the body of a woman and the thoughts and characteristics of a man. Early in my life I met J. H. Hart, a newspaper man in New York. His love making was violent, and after explaining to him my secret he consented to our marriage.

"We lived together many years as chums, and were as happy as it is possible for two mortals to be. Before he died we had moved to Los Angeles. One day he called in Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz and said to her: 'Promise me, Clara, you will always be a good and true friend to Eugenia. She will need it.'

"Mrs. Foltz promised. Later I went to San Francisco and the man nature grew stronger in me. Finally I went to a prominent San Francisco doctor, to the mayor of San Francisco and to several other prominent San Francisco officials and placed my case before them. I received certificates, which I can produce, saying that no one should molest me in my character of man, as I was justified in assuming the man roll, and so I really became a man.

"Then I returned to Los Angeles and opened my school of dramatic art. Soon after that I met Margaret Barton Hawley, housekeeper for a prominent man here, and she proposed to me. I told her there were obstacles in the road, but she waived them aside. Then I told her what the obstacles were.

"She said she did not care and the ceremony was performed. But she soon tired of the arrangement and separation followed. During all my life I have carried my vocation as an elocutionist to the highest planes and have shared honors with the world's greatest artists, and now this has befallen me. I have harmed no one, I will continue to pull and twist my life and soul to adjust themselves with life's demands."

"If the law insists I will cast off man's clothes and don woman's garb and again become Eugenia, the woman I was when first a wife."
